

Choosing to Stay

To Rebuild is to Start New.

Rather than buy new, many people are deciding to stay in their current home and rebuild/remodel. When we say the word “house”, we tend to think of the physical characteristics associated with the structure: the roof, the windows, the front door, etc. Conversely, saying the word “home” brings to mind family, memories, and traditions that are directly connected to emotions. Preserving the place where a family’s history was created is important to many homeowners.

Another reason the general public is choosing to rebuild is to reduce their carbon footprint; i.e. go “green”. Changing an older home into a green home often takes minimal effort and expense. The benefits of doing so can be seen from the beginning and throughout the life of the home. Reusing the existing structure, updating with the latest technologies such as energy efficient appliances, and changing structural elements such as windows and plumbing are all effective ways to revitalize a home and diminish the impact on the environment.

Being cognoscente of these things is the reason why Gryphon Builders is an award winning design/build and remodeling firm.
